1988 marks the golden anniversary of THE GATE.

Since this is such a monumental year for THE GATE, we the staff have chosen the theme for this year's yearbook: REFLECTIONS, so come join us as we reflect 1988.

"Forget the trials and tears; recapture the golden laughter." From the foreword of the first volume of The Gate, published in 1930, this sentiment sets the mold for typical, syrupy stuff characteristic of year-book copy. Fifty volumes later, we reflect on life at Wingate College. It's come a long way, baby.

Even the annual's namesake — The Gate — no longer exists, torn down two years ago because of structural disintegration. The year 1987 also marks the downfall of the women's Tucker Dorm. Perhaps the massive, new wooden gate to Belk Dorm's enlarged courtyard now serves as a surrogate.

Keeping the construction industry in the black, Wingate concentrated on students' top two priorities: eating and housing. Adding a contemporary touch to campus, two shiny apartment buildings sprang up during the summer of 1987. Fifty-six honor students, 24 men and 32 women, got the okay to move in and "play house" with kitchen, laundry room, living area, and bedrooms.

Across campus, changes to the facade of the cafeteria occurred more frequently than to the food — although the extended hours of the “short-order” breakfast grill were a big hit.

Also, reflected in academic “extras” are images of freshmen, television, and “The Big Apple.” Tag-teaming an upperclassman and a faculty member, the Freshman Experience program tried to iron out the transition to the college scene.

Also a first for freshmen and interested upperclassmen was the Great American Heritage Program, a spring break introduction to cultural metropolises in the United States.

In another “on-the-scene-live” learning adventure, students crewed productions in Wingate’s own TV studio.

Eyes of The Past

Hixson

Almost equaling the number of new academic professors, the number of "freshman" coaches mirrors the college tango of books and sports. Alumnus Don Phillips took the helm of the Cannon Athletic Complex, and new coaches teamed up for football and golf.

But the big news came on the soccer field. Tagged as Carolinas Conference Soccer Coach of the Year, Ian MacConnachie headed Wingate's first winning season.

Forming new links with off-campus organizations lengthened the college's chain of influence and public relations. Locally, Cablevision of Monroe connected college subscribers to better reception and a varied offering of channels. In return, Wingate Communications majors impressed the Cable people with live coverage of election returns.

Capitalizing on alumnus ties, Wingate College jumped at the chance to house Jesse Helms' congressional documents in a future Citizenship Center.

Excitement also peaked over the Wingate/Ecuador Connection, involving ministry through a student team during spring break and two students for the summer. Contagious enthusiasm sparked SGA, APB and other clubs to help make the Connection with creative fund-raisers.

So, those "dear days of joys and sorrows" covered in the sixty pages of volume I of The Gate seem far removed from the intense pace of Wingate 1988.

"At the end, the only reflections you have are memories," stated one student. But, in the wisdom of author Lewis Carroll, "It's a poor sort of memory that only works backwards." At Wingate College, the "joys and sorrows" of the past set the tone for the consuming "Vision for Excellence."

A partment LIVING

Decked out in their finest, the North Campus Residential Park apartments sparkled with newness at the Dedication Ceremony on the seventeenth of September. The apartment dwellers were also shining as trustees and spectators from the community inspected the buildings.

Phase I in the Plan for the Second Century, the student apartments were completed in the summer of 1987. One building, with eight apartments, houses 32 women. The other, with six apartments, houses 24 men.

After going through an application and interview process, the fifty-six honor students, upper-classmen, were transformed into "happy homemakers." Seniors Karla Jackson and Amy Matthews agree, "The apartments are the best thing Wingate College ever came up with."

Despite little "kinks at the beginning," including water leakage and phone problems, life in the new apartments is great, professes junior Julie Barbee. Jennifer Jones likes the freedom, especially in having male visitors; "you feel like an adult. You don't have people watching over you." Finding relaxation in the new environment, Darleen Simpson sums up. "I love the chance to get away from school but not really be away."

Cutting up. President Corts and cohorts save a memento of the Apartment Dedication.

President of the '87 seniors Brian Burgess issues a challenge to the graduates.

The Pomp and Circumstance held Wingate's traditional flair — Dean Haskin's lovely rendition of "Precious Memories," the line-up in front of Belk Dorm, and row after row of fold-up chairs lining the "quad."

The 1987 version of commencement took place May eighth. Adding to the thrill of that diploma-in-hand feeling, several graduates received senior honors. For Christian leadership and service, Rodney Navy and Dolores Case shared the honors. The C. C. Burris award for scholarship, leadership, and service went to Robin Frazee, and the equivalent men's award, the A. F. Hendricks Award, went to Kevin Hart.

Also honored was SGA President Karen Penland with the Bud E. & Ethel K. Smith Award. Both Elizabeth Smith Randall and Brenda Mills were recognized with the H. K. Helms Award for scholastic achievement.

Sunshine, tassles, proud families, and cameras flooded the Exercises as 1987 seniors became alumni. In reflection, graduate Dolores Case felt a "sense of pride at finishing four years," marking another beginning.

Graduate John Jones displays the reward for four years of hard work.

THE BULLDOG YEARS

CLASS OF 1988

SENIORS REFLECT

WHAT ARE YOUR MEMORIES AND MOST FAVORITE EXPERIENCES WHILE BEING AT WINGATE COLLEGE?

Miles McCaskill: "Growing up away from home and establishing my independence."

Tommy Kirkman: "Good friends and good times."

Matt Purcell: "I will cherish all the long lasting friendships that I have made."

Clark Carter: "I have enjoyed all the friendly people and the feeling of being at home."

Mark Austin: "I will always remember playing football and all my friends."

Donna Smith: "Lots of smiles, dreams, discoveries, and love are the things I will hold in my heart forever."

Ann Clifton: "My favorite things about Wingate College are the beautiful campus and my friends."

Chris Hilton: "I could never forget Beta Delta Slums and all of the unbelievable and crazy things that have happened there."

Marisa Smith: "An unforgettable, hot blind date."

Brenda Morrison: "Box Day and third floor Alumni."

Kim Knight: "Friends, good times, and Chris."

Richard Smith: "All the wild and crazy things we've tried and gotten away with."

Annette Poplin: "Developing special and long lasting friendships."

Tonia Gold: "My wonderful roommate and the warm atmosphere."

Bonnie Chatfield: "That special Halloween Dance my Sophomore year."

WHO'S who

Academic achievement, community service, extracurricular involvement, and potential for continued success were the determining factors for the selection of 27 Wingate seniors to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Friendship is . . .

"It's when somebody can roll your room, and you don't get mad."

"It's sharing a chocolate milkshake at the Sonic."

"It's pulling trays down in the café to save seats."

"Staying up with a roommate at three a.m. when he can't sleep."

Like Jeopardy, the question is, "What is friendship?" The answer, ponders senior Aly Hockenberry, is not easy. "It's hard to describe something intangible."

But friendships at Wingate come pretty easily. Living in suites, and on hallways, and with roommates require a positive outlook and a joke or two.

Author-educator Leo Buscaglia describes the beginning of a close relationship between two people: "We set up a shared space between the two I's and call it us."

Since the "shared space" in a college setting is intimate, dynamic, and "happening" twenty-four hours a day, friendships are unavoidable.

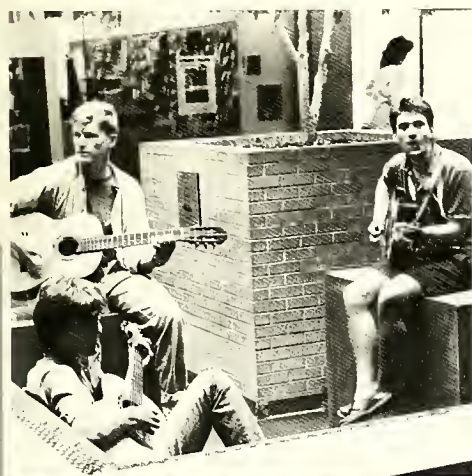

Staff relations. Alyssa Hockenberry and Kevin Collins, both summer workers of the N.C. Baptist Assembly of Ft. Caswell, work at friendship during the semester.

The Grade

The pace plods steadily. Registration. Drop/Add. Fall Fest. Homecoming. Fall Break. Suddenly, from then until exams is official "CT" — Crom Time — as assignments, tests, and research studies snowball, overwhelming "Joe Typical Student," who procrastinated for seven-eighths of the semester.

To each his own. Music students theorize in the Burnside Dalton practice rooms. Biology majors dissect while future chemists are in their element in the science labs. Socializing students, the "in" crowd, head for the library. And, those who go for comfort lounge with the books in the lobbies or dorm rooms.

For Wingateers, there's not much time for reflection as they hit the books.

Dorm Relations

"The Wingate College Family." It's a phrase Wingateers' ears hear again and again. A warm, administrative/"p.r." kind of phrase. It's repeated in convocations, dedications, and publications. But it's in the likes of Belk and Bennett that those family relations are tested.

Take one 12' by 12' cinderblock room. Drop in one Miami collegiate and someone fresh out of Locust, N.C. Sift in clothes, stereos, TV's, popcorn pappers, and pasters. Simmer for a semester or two, stirring with an occasional room check.

The resulting "recipes" — excluding those that bail over or separate — can be relationships as close as family.

Dorm life. An education in itself. The ingredients are as valuable as any classroom experience: daily interaction, late night talks, "inside" jokes, and learning to live together.

Off To Work We Go

It's not an adventure. It's a job.

Exploding tuition costs — not to mention books, supplies, and Southland's — wipe out a student's budget in no time flat.

The solution? Part-time jobs. Wingate students practically run local businesses, such as Walmart, in addition to filling positions as campus student assistants, and work-studyers.

The clock-in, clock-out routine gets tedious, cutting down on study hours and precious sleep time. But the thrill of swinging open the mailbox door on the fifteenth of every month makes the time loss seem a little less costly.

Student Carla Tyson keeps an eye on things at the Sports Complex.

Storey

Join In!

"You won't enjoy college life if you don't get involved." "The key is to get involved." "Get Involved!"

Student Government President Jarrett Banks pounded this message into the heads of incoming freshmen during the three summer orientation sessions. And, probably, most of the freshmen who have joined a club or two, run for an office, tried out for a team, or simply ventured outside their dorm rooms would agree that participation leads to a more exciting college experience.

Of course, there is the possibility of over-involvement; but, generally, one or two activities make a typical week much less typical.

This year, the Activities Program Board worked double-time to keep students hopping. Weekends Chairperson Krista Russell commented, "We tried to appeal to the most students with a variety of activities, from 'Free-for-All Pizzanites,' to Student Coffeehouses with an open stage in the DPC."

Whether selling doughnuts for the BAC, collecting goods for a local fire victim, or pepping up the crowd at a Lady Bulldogs' game, active students found "The Key."

FRIGHT NIGHT '87

There is something about the fall season, and particularly the last week of October, that seems to bring out the kid in each of us. Before the month even has had a chance to get going well, students are creatively planning their costumes for the Halloween Dance. They head to stores to find candy which they will pass out to friends for the festive occasion. As the week approaches, decisions are made of who's going to which haunted house with who else and when they will go. Signs pasted all over campus announce horror movies that will be shown at various places on campus. A chill is felt in the air as the moon grows fuller each night. Finally, the big moment arrives as Sanders-Sikes Gym becomes a retreat for spooks, goblins, and characters of all kinds. DJ Mike Lang keeps the music going while cats prance, mummies groan, claws giggle, and superheroes mingle and begin to dance. The highlight of the evening quickly approaches as many prepare for the costume contest. Claiming the 1987 Scariest Award was Ogden Bullard, while the spine-chilling group of Henry's Funeral Service was Mast Original. Wingate's own Adams Family walked away with the award for best group, and Greg Matthews was awarded for his representation of Scat-tie from "Star Trek." As a chicken, Traci Kratz was Best Overall, while Farrest Kenley and Rob Rich, dressed as two most adorable babies, stole everyone's heart along with the Best Couple Award. It is evident that Wingate students always make the most out of a chance to become kids again!

Freshmen Esther McSwain, Tereso Klouss, and Kim Rudisill experience Halloween Wingate style.

DINING at its

Ch-ch-ch-changes!

Move over old W.T.! There's a new café in town.

Drop-jawed disbelief was the January reaction after winter break. Hungry students, after running up the familiar steps and pulling out the Spring-stamped ID, opened the cafeteria doors only to be pleasantly shocked by the makeover.

Attractive purplish-rose, blue, and cream hid the old chocolate brown decor. Sectioned off by a modular wall structure, the middle "square" seemed "restaurant-ish," with cushioned chairs and booths. More visibility made the two side sections better "scoping" territory.

Inspecting the carpet covering the eating areas, some students questioned its practicality and durability. Others wondered if aesthetics had taken priority over common sense. During the lunch "rush hour," students still were seatless and stood, tray in hand, ready to pounce on emptying tables.

Sophomore Brenda Daugherty decided that although the new look of the cafeteria is "snazzy," "the food hasn't changed much."

Checker Tanja Humphries keeps the café safe from students who've lost their identities.

QUEEN

1987 Homecoming Queen Amy Allen

Amy Allen, Wingate's 1987 Homecoming Queen, exemplified beauty, talent, and the true spirit of Wingate College. Having an outgoing personality and a beautiful smile, Amy captured the hearts of the Wingate Students to capture the crown. A Senior from Mebane, NC, she is majoring in Human Services with a minor in both Psychology and Physical Education. Being very surprised, honored, and filled with gratitude, Amy feels that "being named Wingate's Homecoming Queen is the biggest compliment I could ever receive from my friends and fellow students."

HOMECOMING

"Homecoming" - one of the biggest and best events all year! By the time students arrived on campus in late August, planning for Homecoming had already begun. Beginning with class competitions, the week's activities kept the campus buzzing. Throughout the week students pulled in the tug-o-war, ran a fireman's relay, splashed in the water volleyball game, and raced in a creative relay. Meanwhile, others were busy preparing banners that would line the fence at the football field. At the lake on Friday night, the cheerleaders pepped up the student body in the light of a bonfire. The boosted spirit carried over to Saturday's parade, game, and dance.

The day, cloudy at first, turned into perfect football weather. Arriving at Walter Bickett Stadium for the afternoon kickoff, students, faculty, and alumni were full of anticipation - not only for the game against Gardner-Webb, but also for the crowning of the 1987 homecoming queen. Although the "Battle of the Bulldogs" proved unsuccessful for Wingate, the afternoon ended on a high note as students rushed back to campus to prepare for an evening of fun.

Before an attempted field goal, Glenn Marsh assists Mike May.

HOMECOMING

The football game was one of the major highlights during homecoming.

The Alumni/Hendricks' float was the winner of the Most School Spirit Category.

Before participating in the parade, the blue squad cheerleaders attempt to keep warm.

Andrea Combs goes for the win in the fireman's play.

Always a popular event, the homecoming parade not only proved successful once again, but this year it has been rated one of the best in Wingate's history. Dedicated members of various organizations expressed their interest and creativity in representing this year's theme, "The Future's So Bright."

Receiving the Most Original Award was Sigma Alpha Omega, and Beta Kappa Mu won Best All-Around. The Alumni/Hendricks float tied with the Dance team for Most School Spirit, and Presidential Award was given to the Senior Class. Each of the 19 entries sparkled with variety, originality, and enthusiasm as the spectators looked on.

Doing last minute touches is Mark Mayberry.

Deon Donald Haskins served as this year's Parade Marshal.

ISN'T SHE LOVELY?

On Monday, November 16, thirteen "lovely ladies" vied for the title of Miss Alumni. This year marked the sixth annual production of this gala event, but for the first time it was honored with a special contestant: Representing the Spirit of Tucker Hall was Davis "Devastating Davida" Bennett who was also awarded an anchovy and anian pizza for having been unanimously voted Miss Dally Partan Look-Alike. Voted by her fellow contestants as Miss Congeniality, Jack "Jamming Jacqueline" Cagle shared her charming personality with the entire audience. All of the lovely ladies entertained the audience with many unusual yet splendid acts. Jaey "Ophelia Fantasy" Alexander, voted most talented non-finalist, won the audience with her rendition of "The Hakey-Pakey." Dale "Anita 8ath" Hancock, 1st runner-up, and the amazing Chuck Dulin performed a hilariously enchanting "pas de deux" ballet which brought the house down. Expressing her exceptional musical abilities with water glasses and spoons, Randy "Raving Ravishing Ronden" McDaniel entertained with her performance of "You're An Angel." However, it was Eric "Exotic Erica" Morphis, with her hula dance to "Wipe Out," that captivated and won the hearts of the audience and judges, enabling her to be crowned Miss Alumni 1987-88.

The spectacular event was successfully directed by Ms. Rhonda Hemrick, while Mrs. Cindy Jordan and Mr. Jarrett Banks were the Mistress and Master of Ceremonies. And, once again, Dr. Donald B. Haskins was fortunate enough to crown the queen and her court.

Exotic Erica performs her crowd-pleasing hula-hoop routine to the song "Wipe Out."

Elated and highly emotional, Exotic Erica (Eric Morphis) accepts the 1987-88 Miss Alumni crown from Dean Haskins.

Radiating beauty and talent, Ophelia Fantasy (alias Joey Alexander) models her formal wear during the evening's competition.

Budding Badacious Babs (Bobby Mangon) stunned the audience with femininity on her way to taking 3rd place in the pageant.

Wingate Celebrates the Joy of the Season

Hixson

Inspiring activities throughout campus, the Christmas season was a very busy, but extremely joyful time of year. From the moment students returned from the Thanksgiving holidays, everyone on campus was getting into the spirit of the season. Students expressed their creativity by decorating the Dickson Palmer Center and dorm lobbies, enjoying the "trimming of the trees" most of all. While some dorms were judging door-decorating contests, others were celebrating with parties or singing Christmas carols.

Sponsoring special events in honor of the season were several of the campus organizations. CSU members shared the Christmas spirit with one another in worship during the Maravian Love Feast, and the CSU choir spent an evening caroling at Guardian Care in Manrae. Poinsettias were sold by PBL in order to raise money for the club.

Wingate's Family Christmas Dinner, held on December 5 in the dining hall, highlighted the campus-sponsored events. Entertainment was provided by several of Wingate's best musicians while Dr. Jim McCay hosted the event. Assisted by "actors" Bobby Mongan and Randy Baane, Dean Nash's narration of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" was a most memorable part of the evening. Although the dinner quickly drew to a close, excitement lingered in the air as students continued to the gym for the Christmas Dance.

As Dean Nash narrated the story, Bobby Mongan and Randy Boone played the parts of the Grinch and the reindeer, attempting to steal Christmas.

The Great American Heritage program began as a series of seminars with approximately 100 students participating. Two groups travelled to Boston, Massachusetts under the supervision of Dr. Walter Waadsan, Dr. Dan Merrill, Mr. Lex Youngman, Dr. Ran Bastic and Mrs. Gladys Kerr. Students travelled to Lexington, Concord, Harvard University, and other historical landmarks in the area.

The six day program was designed under Dr. James Henderson. Wingate College provided travel and lodging costs for the sophomore students with a 2.0 minimum GPA. Several juniors and seniors were also allowed to participate in the program.

The Wingate-in-London program offers students an opportunity to study for culture of another society through daily interaction with British citizens, students, and professors. Participants in the three month program were Suzanne Arnold, Paul Bishop, Devona Blake, Kristin Boss, Bonnie Chatfield, Marylaura Christopher, Kevin Connell, Nanda English, Debra Greene, Barry Howard, Jane Ellen Hyatt, Mike McKoon, Donna Morgan, Amie Nance, Reji Puthenveetil, Susan Rumsey, Lew Wall, and Kristi Wilkins. This past year students were accompanied by Ms. Beth Lawrence, Dean of Career Services and Counseling, and her brother, Jim Lawrence.

A sense of comradeship soon became evident in the group. Students grew to be a family and No. 6 Glendower Place became home. While in London, all participated in various classes consisting of British theatre, religion, speech, Independent studies, and seminars on Winston Churchill and British art.

This past year, Wingate College provided two weekend excursions to Edinburgh, capital of Scotland, and Paris, France. On free weekends, most students took the opportunity to travel abroad. During their three month stay, students travelled to over fourteen countries.

Trying to find words to describe the experience of living in London is an impossible task. The friendships formed and places visited will be a part of the memories of the group forever. When a man is tired of London he is tired of life." Dr. Samuel Johnson

So often I sit and think about the way things were - The fun and friends, the joy we all had and the times of just being together . . . Of course there were some days, times we wondered how we made it, but our friendship helped us through. Now we may be separated, but the band is still there. Friendship holds us together.

The 1988 Honor attendant of the court was Christy Maxwell, a sophomore, majoring in early childhood education. Christy represented the Sophomore class.

Other members of the court included Kim Knight, Amie Nance, Julie Barbree, and Beth Proctor chosen by Alpha Chi, Drama Club, FCA, and the Outing Club respectively. All ladies were elegant representatives of Wingate College.

EARLY CHILDHOOD MEMORIES Lesley Lynn

These harsh memories are still alive
In the dark corners of my mind.
I recall the degrading house
With its pale green color
And dust dancing in the back yard.
The uneven boards across the floor
Still creak in my ears against my will.
I want to forget the horrid pain,
However, it grows as a blade of grass
Nourished and completely out of my control.
I see the peeling paint on the dirty walls
That served many times as a sturdy place
For the woman to smash her child's face.
I was not a being, just a body
A lump of pale human flesh,
Vulnerable and alone used for her desire.
No one knew; it was done so well.
I never understood that it wasn't love,
Not until I was too old to forget.
I thought that was the way everyone lived
With purple bruises instead of lipstick prints
And morning fights instead of family breakfasts.
When I discovered kisses and hugs
Were the expressions made by those you love,
I felt so hurt, so empty, and completely alone.
Somehow I forgave, but I cannot forget.

BACK TO THE FIFTIES April Johnson

Remember our time no one can touch?
We were bee bapping around like
nobody's business,
our own mald, our own special era.
The juke box is stuck, is stuck, is stuck and Wham!
spins right round again.
We are the NOW,
the baby boomers booming.
Soon we will be the THEN.
Flowers and peace love donny
asmond-
Remember our time no one can
touch?
Rock and Roll.

RUST COLORED DREAMS OF GREEN Mary Ann Smith

The little feet go barefoot in the snow and are cracked over by the summer's dirt.
An orange or an apple for Christmas and Birthdays -
That's all. (Even Santa doesn't get that far South.)
They go to school and learn in their patched-up
hand-me downs from the church bazaar.
Through eye glasses taped twice by Daddy, they read of a fairy tale life of security and picket fences.
And they hunger for candy apple from the traveling carnival
and for a chance within the city limits.
Across the tracks, there's a life of sparkling white
- a house not surrounded by the peeling chips
and water not colored by rust.
In the arms of the big oak near the ramshackle barn,
they out dream each other with colored visions -
Only to fall back into the brown of the dirt, of the grass, of their existence.
When Mama calls all eleven in her rasping voice
for a supper of stackless soup and dried up bread,
Of course, they always say grace and mimic
the words of prayers left unanswered.
It's a cycle each day.
Then they crawled into their musty, lumpy beds
and wrap their arms twice around their pillows as they escape the only way possible, besides the books,
through the green of their dreams.

LAST RAINBOW Chuck Combs

Together to the stream
before the death of day.
You striding long and weak
choosing breath along the way.
The offering into the black swirl
as good as it always was.
The strike like a smoke
quick from his wrinkled world.
The rainbow in the basket
flips and whirls, flips and whirls.
That day is dead now — and you.
Now I alone cost my offering into the darkening pool.

WAR Suzanne E. Felts

These huddled corpses, mourning
in a dirt grave of grit.
Their hollow faces storing
The pain they feel as memories of The War clutter their burnt minds with red and green cartoons dancing about — the pity of it all.
Racing about in their playground of thoughts,
they remember the destruction that our modern-day toys
brought to innocent victims who were game pieces
on a Global board of combat.
The battleground covered with lanelly bodies,
drinking from the fountain of eternal darkness,
singing lamentations of
death and violence.
The clamor of thunder ceases
its fierce network
within their consciousness and once again they rest
in peace and liberal solitude
— for a while.

THE WORLD SLEEPS AGAIN Anthony Houston

Demons gather in black and blue wearing two snakes as rank,
their cross misshapen.
Herding Jewish cattle Building avens for
on ungodly feast.
Death leads the enemy.
At last count — 9 million.
They move, for them — moments
for us — years.
I see them and their leader.
They walk the southern end of the Harse Continent, bearing the new name — Apartheid!
My God! The world sleeps again . . .

CLUBS REFLECT UNITY

The Intra-Club Council consists of the president of each club represented on campus. Clubs play a vital part in the development of the unity felt on the Wingate College campus. Each club is unique and contributes to the school in a way that no other club does. Special friendships are made, and valuable lessons are learned through the participation in clubs. Organizations represented at Wingate College offer a variety of activities that are exciting and enjoyable. There is a great deal of work done by members when a group is sponsoring or leading an event, but the smiles and laughter that go along with it make the jobs fun. Membership in a club allows one to grow and learn more about himself. Participation in a club also produces one of the greatest things in life - memories.

Unity was the theme for this year's Student Government Association. One of the main goals of SGA was to establish better communication between the student body and the SGA leaders. Open forums were held for students to raise questions and make suggestions concerning Wingate College, and also for them to give the student body the opportunity to participate in student government decisions. SGA sponsored several dances this year, along with the Halloween Carnival, Homecoming week, May Court, and various other activities on campus. The organization also sponsored the PE TRA concert, the Entertainers, and the Voltage Brothers. The United Savings Association was made available to students, staff, and faculty through SGA.

SGA worked on suggestions from the student body concerning more token machines, better visitation privileges, and increasing the awareness of the school's honor code. Members were also committed to the Wingate/Equador Connection. They also helped raise money and take up supplies for Mrs. Crowder, a resident in the nearby community whose house and belongs were destroyed in a fire.

ACTIVITIES PROGRAM BOARD

The Activities Program Board was associated with the numerous and on-going activities on campus. APB sponsored and put on various concerts and programs during each semester which included: The Entertainers, Live Student Coffee-house Performances, Fall Fest, and the Dating Game. Due to its continuous programs, the APB was also credited with keeping the weekends alive and enjoyable for all students. The major goal for APB was to involve a wider, more diverse group of students in activities to keep them on campus. President Richard Smith was quoted as saying, "APB tried to convey the idea that you don't have to leave campus to have fun."

Many of the students find APB dances a great way to have fun and be with friends.

CHRISTIAN STUDENT UNION

The Christian Student Union is open to any student at Wingate regardless of denomination. The club encourages students to renew their faith in Christ and to share their faith with others. Very active on and off campus, CSU provides students with the opportunity to participate in puppetry, drama, and revival throughout the state, and also to share at nursing homes and backyard Bible clubs in the community. The group conducts weekly meetings including special singing, testimonies, special prayer and preaching. The main goal of CSU is to show students that living a Christian life can be fun and exciting and full of opportunities.

ART CLUB

The Wingate College Art Club offers students majoring in art, the chance to work closely with others and share their creations with other students on campus. The Student Art Show and Art Sale is sponsored each semester by the members. "Wednesday Work Night" is held weekly and members work together on projects and assignments with the help of faculty members.

The club hosts the Senior Exhibit of Art Majors each semester. All members were invited to attend the North Carolina Art Educators conference held in the fall. The group also participated in fundraising activities.

PEP CLUB

This year the Pep Club was full of the bulldog spirit and enthusiasm. The group held bonfires and pep rallies to put energy into the Wingate fans. Members could be seen at any sports event with painted faces, signs, banners, and megaphones. Their support of the athletes showed genuine pride in being a student at Wingate. Motivating crowds and projecting a good image of how Wingate students feel to the visiting team were some of the accomplishments of the club.

DORM COUNCIL

The Wingate College Dorm Council is made up of 30 Residence Assistants and 6 Residence Directors. Each of these were selected through applications and interviews. Two of the Residence Directors are considered student Managers, a position Created so that graduates could continue their education through graduate studies.

Each Residence Assistant attends weekly meetings and is on duty on a rotating basis. These students know the people living on their hall, and the Administrators of Wingate College depend on the Residence Assistants to help meet the needs in a residential setting. The Assistants plan social and educational activities within the dormitory and are trained in areas such as first aid, rules and regulations, drugs, and group unity. The Dorm council helps with registration every semester and publicizes events on campus in the dorms. Residence Director Dolores Case commented that "the Residence Assistants are responsible and are an asset to residence life at Wingate College."

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

The purpose for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes is "to present to coaches and athletes and all who they influence, the challenge and adventure of accepting Jesus Christ and serving Him in their community and in the fellowship of the church." FCA members meet weekly at Wingate College. Meetings consist of speakers, movies, discussion groups, singspirations, and various other activities. The group also attends retreats and sponsors concerts. FCA at Wingate coordinates FCA for area high schools and makes church presentations in the community. The advisor of FCA is Steve Jirgal.

INTRAMURALS

Open to any student living on campus in a dorm or in an apartment, Intramurals offer a variety of activities. Each year begins with flag football and volleyball. In the spring, activities consist of basketball, airwalk games, and softball. Some of the special events are three on three basketball, a billiards tournament, racquetball, and a ping pong tournament. Under the leadership of Don Phillips, director of the Cannon Complex, Lori Toth organized the women's intramural activities, and Steve Aheron organized the men's intramural activities.

THE TRIANGLE

One of the busiest groups on campus, staff members of The Triangle distribute the newspaper weekly. Students used the facilities of the Enquirer Journal to produce it. Editors work on a voluntary basis, while students in Journalism 301 and 305 submit articles as part of their class assignments.

The paper keeps students informed of activities on campus and gives the opportunity for anyone to voice their opinions concerning issues about Wingate College. The students are also updated about events in the community. A lot of work went into organizing this year's newspaper, but, as editor-in-chief Kim Deese stated, "the day to day hassles were a pain, but in the long run it was worth it. When you actually work in a newsroom, you learn a great deal of practical knowledge concerning journalism. Everybody gets along, and that makes it more than just a job; it makes it fun."

Kim Deese and Jennifer Wolf share ideas for the paper.

COUNTERPOINT

Wingate's literary magazine Counterpoint is published yearly by many creative students. It includes selected essays, poems, and some artistic drawings and photography work, all of which are evidence of the hard work and dedication that is put forth to produce each piece. The students participating in Counterpoint's fall workshop learn the key to creative writing, "show, don't tell." They learn to see things in new ways and translate what they see and feel into vivid metaphors and images that others can see and feel. The best writing from the fall workshop is combined with writing from the spring workshop, English classes, and that of other Wingate students to create the 1988 issue. Art is provided by students in the art classes, and photography, a new addition to Counterpoint will also be used this year. Sponsored by the publication's members, a poetry writing contest was also initiated this year, and awards prizes to the most exceptional pieces of work.

Medical Assistants are trained to work with physicians in an office or clinic. Medical assistants work in both clinical office assisting and administrative assisting. Because of their flexibility and diversity of the training, Medical Assistants have become a valuable part of the health team. On completion of the two year medical assisting program, students earn an Associate in Science degree in Medical Assisting. During the final eight weeks of the program, students are placed in local physician's offices to complete their externship. The group sponsored a health screening of all the students at Wingate Elementary and a blood drive on campus in conjunction with the American Red Cross.

BANDS

Being in tune with Wingate College comes easy to the members of the four bands on campus. Each group is directed by Mr. Scott Whitley. With the exception of the Pep Band, each group practices on a weekly basis. The Pep Band plays at home football and basketball games. The Brass Ensemble, made up of only brass instruments, accompanies the college choirs on various performances. This group traveled to the New England states to tour with the Chamber Singers.

The Concert Band gives a concert during the fall and spring semesters as well as many other community concerts. This band has the widest variety of instruments that can be played. The Jazz Band, similar to the Concert Band, only plays jazz selections and is the newest band at Wingate.

The Board of Trustees is perhaps most well-known for securing financial resources for the college and electing the president. The Board of Trustees always makes sure that any Wingate student who wants to travel has two opportunities to do so at no extra cost to the student. These trips may occur in the junior or sophomore years. The student may travel to a major American city in his/her sophomore year and may travel to another country in the junior year. The Board of Trustees considers travel very important to the development of a student.

Dr. Paul R. Corts

President of Wingate College

Dear Wingate Family:

As president I have so many joyous memories of special experiences on the campus. Like many of you, one of my most precious memories is of my first time on the campus to stroll through the beautiful campus setting and experience the warmth of this special place and all the people here who make up the Wingate family. I will always remember that occasion because it was my first time to really experience the "Wingate spirit" in person, and it made a profound impression upon me. The genuine friendliness, happiness and expression that indicated how people cared for one another was remarkable and unlike anything I had really experienced before.

Many of my memories are focused around specific events of a cultural or recreational nature — the choir concerts; the Christmas family dinner; a sporting event like soccer, football, basketball, or baseball; the real feeling of special pride I had when I stood in the massive arena in Kansas City, Missouri and watched our women's basketball team take the court and play so well to represent our college in the national women's basketball tournament.

Many other memories for me to relate to significant events on campus such as the re-opening of the Burris Classroom Building after its complete renovation, the wonderful experience of excitement that surrounded the opening of the Cannon Complex, and more recently the opening of the student apartments and the redecoration and expansion of the W.T. Harris Dining Hall. Somehow these kinds of experiences speak powerfully to me for they remind me of the dynamic development of the College.

To think of reflections my mind is also drawn to those very special personal experiences which I have had the joy to share on a one-on-one basis with many of our students. These include experiences such as arriving at Heathrow Airport in London, England to be met by a large group of our Wingate-in-London students and sharing a weekend with them in their apartments in London's West End.

I reflect on the good times we had at the student-faculty administrative retreat when we rode on the bus to Maryville, Tennessee and enjoyed a weekend of meetings and cheering our Bulldog football team on to victory and all the good experiences we had on the long bus ride over and back. I reflect on the good exchanges we have had with meetings in the dorm rooms with students from all walks of campus life, and the monthly meetings with the student leadership in the President's Forum. These and a host of other direct experiences with our students form memories which are etched indelibly in my mind.

For all of this, and much, much more, I am deeply grateful. It is a wonderful joy to serve as president of this fine institution.

Very Sincerely yours,

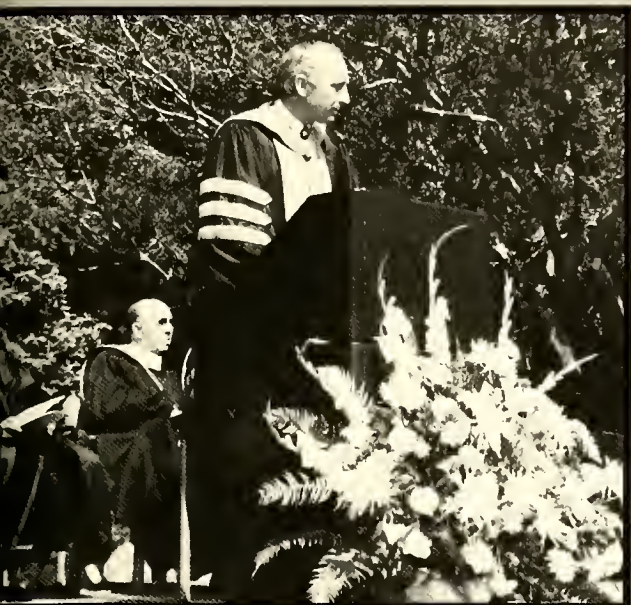

Paul R. Corts

FRESHMAN EXPERIENCE

Freshman Experience was taught differently this year, and it received a half-hour more credit. The difference was the textbook entitled Becoming a Master Student with such chapters as "Time," "Reading," "Relationships," "Health," and "Money." As one can see, the course covered the whole spectrum of a freshman's life. The book had many study suggestions and even suggested an effective way to settle disagreements. The course may be different again next year as Wingate takes into consideration suggestions for improvement.

SOCCER

Hixson

Hey, Coach! Can you do this?

A challenge for the Wingate College soccer Bulldogs in 1987 will be developing and blending 11 freshmen and one junior college transfer with eight returning lettermen. The Bulldogs were 3-13-1 in 1987 (0-7-1 in the Carolinas Conference and 0-9-1 in NAIA District 26).

Coach Ian MacConnachie, in his third season at the Wingate helm, believes "the key is how well they blend together once they understand each other." Coach MacConnachie experienced a strong recruiting year with 12 new faces joining the Bulldogs, led by Essex Community College (MD) transfer Dan McIntyre (jr., Baltimore, MD), a tough defender from the fullback position.

Freshmen newcomers for Wingate are forwards Bryan Lewis (Charlotte), Joe Shaw (Frankfort, KY), Mark Carson (Charlotte), and Larry Norris (Madrid, Spain); midfielders Brett Wortham (Altamonte Springs, FL), Drew Dooling (Warminster, PA), Rob Rodriguez (Matthews); fullbacks Chris Walden (Longwood, FL); Tony Elder (Virginia Beach, VA), and Chris Hull (Charlotte); and goalkeeper Sean McMahon (Basking Ridge, NJ).

Three seniors, led by fullback and captain Daren Kerr (Mt. Pleasant, SC), will provide leadership for the Bulldogs to fill the space left by 1987 graduate and 1986 NAIA academic all-American midfielder Kevin Hart (DeLand, FL). Bob Kim (Jacksonville, FL) will move to forward this season, while midfielder Chuck Sweisberger (Salisbury) returns to the team after a three-year absence. Sweisberger was a standout offensive player for the Bulldogs from 1981-83. Other returnees are forward Vincent Connolly (jr., Concord), midfielder Jason Altmann (jr., Kannapolis), fullbacks Neil Brandon (soph., Guisborough, England) and Craig Kirby (soph., Clearwater, FL) and goalkeeper John Young (soph., DeLand, FL).

Coach MacConnachie believes the Bulldogs gained credibility as a program on the rise last season. One key for Wingate will be early blending of returnees and newcomers. "Finding the right combination will set the tone for our season," coach MacConnachie said.

Head Coach Steve Wilt

Wingate College's football Bulldogs play a complete ten-game schedule in 1987. Wingate College head coach Steve Wilt enters the 1987 season, only Wingate's second in 25 years, with guarded optimism.

Wingate returns 27 lettermen for 1987, including 13 starters (seven offensive, six defensive). The Bulldogs will have five seniors in 1987: Offensive tackle Eric Fleming (Mt. Airy, NC), defensive tackle John Coker (Columbia, SC), free safety Mark Austin (Concorn, NC), strong safety Greg Buchanan (Newland, NC), and slotback Quinton Campbell (Winston Salem, NC). Fleming, Coker, Austin, and Buchanan are returning starters, while Campbell will see much action in Wingate's offensive schemes.

In addition to Fleming, returning offensive starters include center Jeff Sholar (jr., Leland, NC), guard/tackle Lance Cole (jr., Wadesboro, NC), guard Jimmy Sutton (soph., Rock Hill, SC), fullback Dammeon Chisholm (soph., Rock Hill, SC), and slotbacks Billy Blakeney (soph., Jefferson, SC) and Mark Rhyne (soph., Hickory, NC).

One potential returning starter who will miss the 1987 season is quarterback Kip Jones (soph., Jefferson City, TN). Wingate's MVP in 1986, Jones suffered a broken collarbone in preseason drills. Jones completed 113 yards and eight touchdowns in 1986.

Battling for the starting quarterback role will be Dana Graves (fr., Pageland, SC), Glenn Marsh (soph., Port Charlotte, FL), and returning letterman Richard Jacobs (soph., Cheraw, SC). "They're all working hard and responding well to the challenge," coach Wilt said. "Right now, Dana has the inside track for the starting role. I feel he will do a good job; he only needs game experience, yet we can't go into the season without depth. Both Glenn and Richard are responding well in practice," Coach Wilt noted.

Another key returnee for Wingate is place-kicker Michael May (soph., Cheraw, SC), a first-team all NAIA District 26 selection in 1986. May booted 15 of 19 extra points and five of eight field goals (including a career-best 48 yarder) to give the Bulldogs a much-needed boost.

Coach Wilt hopes the blend of experienced returnees and talented newcomers will help the Bulldogs improve on their 3-5 1986 record. "I was pleased with last year, yet we've grown more and we are more experienced this year," coach Wilt said. "We've had some things happen to us, but we have some men who will respond and make things happen. We're very excited."

Wingate College Volleyball coach Johnny Jacumin will have a very young team in 1987, with two seniors, two juniors, three sophomores, and four freshmen on the pre-season roster. The Lady Bulldogs were 13-16 overall (2-6 in the Carolinas Conference and 5-10 in NAIA District 26) in 1986.

Leading the veterans is senior setter/hitter Cheryl "Sweet Pea" Barrineau (Andrews, SC). Exclusively a hitter her first three seasons, Barrineau will play a new role this year. Coach Jacumin hopes Barrineau will fill the leadership role previously held by four-year letterman Susan Wright (Miami, FL), and three-time Wingate MVP, three-time all-conference and two-time all-district performer. Wingate's other senior is Sheila Hodge (Sumter, SC), a defensive specialist.

In addition to Barrineau, two starters return. Hitters Lynn Waddell (jr., Sumter, SC) and Kim Smoak (soph., Easley, SC) will be leading the Wingate offense. Their competitiveness will be an added plus. Defensive specialist Sandy Surber (soph., Salem, VA) also returns, providing Wingate with improved back line play.

Six newcomers round out the Wingate roster, led by hitter Crystal Brandenburg (fr., Keedysville, MD), MVP of her Boonsboro High School team. Other freshmen newcomers include hitter/setter Amy Jarman (fr., Wadesboro, NC), hitter Tammie Laney (fr., Monroe, NC) and defensive specialist Lisa Smith (fr., Matthews, NC). Student trainer Julie Johannes (soph., Myrtle Beach, SC), a setter, joins the team this year, as does walk-on hitter Amy Waugh (jr., Mooresville, NC).

Coach Jacumin is optimistic about the upcoming season. "We are improved," he noted. "If we can continue our recruiting and keep building, I feel we can eventually challenge for the top spots in the conference and district," he added.

Coach Johnny Jacumin, 138-66 overall in seven seasons at the helm of Wingate's women's basketball program, is very optimistic about the 1987-88 season. Wingate was 29-4 (14-2 in the Carolinas Conference and 19-3 in NAIA District 26) last season, winning the conference, district, and NAIA Bi-District XII championships and advancing to NAIA National Tournament quarterfinals for the second year in a row while compiling the best record in school history. In the pre-season poll of conference and district coaches, Wingate was a unanimous choice to repeat as conference and District champions.

Point guard Cheryl "Sweet Pea" Barribeau (sr., Andrews, SC) returns for her final season as a Lady Bulldog. Barribeau averaged 18.4 ppg and 6.5 apg in 1986-87. A third-team NAIA all-American last season, Barribeau was conference player of the year, all-conference, all district, and MVP of the conference and district tournaments last season, in addition to being named conference and district female athlete of the year. Barribeau has been all-conference and all-district all three of her Wingate seasons.

Center Pam Elleby (jr., Marion, SC) is Wingate's only other returning starter. Elleby averaged 11.0 ppg and 8.0 rpg last season, and, at 6'4", can be an intimidating force inside.

Returning lettermen include forwards Sheila Hodge (sr., White Plains, NY), Kim Smoak (soph., Easley, SC), Toni Crees (soph., Landis, NC), and guards Audrey Sherrill (soph., Newton, NC), and Lynn Waddell (jr., Sumter, SC).

Coach Jacumin feels he experienced his best recruiting year ever with the addition of four recruits and one walk-on player. The newcomers, all freshmen, are guards Tammie Laney (Monroe, NC), a transfer from East Carolina University; Direne Thomas (Blackville, SC), Angela Blakely (Norwood, NC), Amy Jarman (Wadesboro, NC). Laney is a local product from Parkwood; Thomas starred at Blackville-Hilda; Blakely prepped at South Stanly. Jarman at Anson County and Williams at R-S Central. The combined scoring averages of these five players during their final high school seasons was well over 120 ppg. Thomas, a 3,059 point career scorer, averaged 37.5 ppg her senior campaign.

Coach Jacumin has lofty goals for this team. "Our goal is to return to Kansas City," he said. "Anything less would leave a bad taste in our mouths. I'm pleased we were picked to win the conference and district. To lose three starters and still be picked to win is great."

The Wingate College men's basketball team expects to continue the upsurge that has come about in the past two seasons. Head Coach Steve Hudson has dealt the CARDS: conditioning, attitude, rebounding, defense, and shot selection to propel the Bulldogs into the elite of the conference and district. Last year, Wingate finished 16-11 overall (8-8 in the Carolinas Conference and 14-10 in NAIA District 26) and gave the school its first-ever back-to-back winning campaigns since becoming a senior college. The 1985-86 team went 21-10 with a runner-up finish in the conference, advancing to the semi-finals of the district tournament.

Leading the pack is all-conference performer Ed Smith (jr., Rutherfordton, NC). Smith, a 6'7" post player, was the only sophomore at Wingate to ever receive that accolade. Smith scored at a 17.9 clip, garnering 200 rebounds and leading the conference and district with a 59 percent field goal accuracy. Shooting guard Marvin McKesson (sr., Marion, NC) brings his 9.3 ppg production back for his finale in the league wars. Other returning lettermen include 6'4" guard Scott Day (sr., La-Grange, KY), 6'2" guard Todd Holden (soph., Charlotte, NC), 6'2" guard Marvin Work (soph., Mooresville, NC), and 5'8" point guard Mike Craft (soph., Hickory, NC).

Three players who missed last season for various reasons will add even greater excitement for the team's fans. Forward Olli Brunberg (jr., Helsinki, Finland) returns after a year of military duty. His 6'9" torso reflects the hard work. Forward Anthony Houston (jr., Charlotte, NC), a 6'4" forward, has recovered from back and shoulder injuries that forced him into a redshirt status last season. Forward Neil Willoughby (fr., Oakboro, NC) is ready to go after missing last year due to a motorcycle accident. His 6'5" frame and big hands will be a welcome addition on the boards.

Leading a trio of freshmen newcomers is point guard Troy Ebron (Greenville, NC). A 5'11" speedster, Ebron has an excellent shot at winning a starting slot for the Bulldogs. Forward Chris Huntley (Morven, NC) is the member of this impressive cast. A 6'4" swing man who is very versatile, Chris displays outstanding athletic ability and a deft shooting hand.

TENNIS

Wingate women's tennis coach Dr. Lynn Moss made great strides with the program in only her second season in 1987. After finishing eighth in the Carolinas Conference tournament in 1986, the Lady Bulldogs climbed to fifth in the 1987 conference event. Wingate completed the 1987 season 7-9 overall (3-5 in the Carolinas Conference and 6-5 in NAIA District 26).

Dr. Moss will look to seniors Cathy Cannon (North Wilkesboro) and Jenny Kithil (Holcomb, NY) for leadership. "I have very high expectations for Cathy and Jenny," Dr. Moss said. Other returnees include Julie Barbee (Locust), and sophomores Christy Maxwell (Moyock) and Kim Goodman (Richfield).

Newcomers include Sharon Jenkins (jr., Monroe), Vickie Welch (jr., Waxhaw), and freshmen Julie Price (Monroe) and Mary Ked Prince (Monroe).

With a veteran team returning and with the addition of two talented freshmen, Wingate College men's tennis coach Dr. Ken Pickerill looks for the Bulldogs to be very competitive in 1988. Wingate was 4-7 overall (3-4 in the Carolinas Conference and 4-7 in NAIA District 26) in 1987.

Leading the team will be Marcus Luke (soph., Monroe). Other returnees are Chris Hinson (sr., Marshville), Brent Widenhouse (jr., Charlotte), Chuck Gordon (jr., Monroe), Steve Aheron (jr., Stokesdale), and Chris Horne (soph., Peachland). "These players should give us a lift this season, especially after a strong fall performance."

Two freshmen recruits, Salvador Belanos (San Salvador, El Salvador) and Rahn Chase (Lenoir), should play key roles and be steady players for the Bulldogs. One other newcomer will be Jeff Malone (fr., Monroe), to provide contribution to the team.

GOLF

Hank Coombs tees off during an afternoon match.

Wingate golf coach Mike Moreau enters his first spring season with a veteran team that hopes to challenge for post-season honors.

Four seniors, led by 1987 MVP Steve Comings (Elk Ridge, MD), will lead the Bulldogs. Other seniors are Mike McKoon (Winston-Salem), Hank Coombs (Mt. Pleasant, SC), and Gene Huntley (Morven). David Rector (jr., Rock Hill, SC) and Craig Williamson (soph., Amherst, MD) also return, giving the Bulldogs a veteran and experienced team for 1988.

Coach Moreau expects good things from his linksters. "We feel very good about our chances," he said. "Experience is probably our biggest strength. When it's crunch time, I'll take the experienced player every time," he added.

Comings, McKoon, and Coombs are all three-year lettermen who would like to end their Bulldogs careers on a bright note. "These guys have been around, have played in the big tournaments, and they know what it takes to be successful," coach Moreau said. "We expect to be in the hunt for the conference and district titles," he added.

The Bulldogs have been successful in the conference/district tourneys, with two medalists (John Ellis in 1982 and Phil Nickell in 1985). This season's combined conference and district event is April 14-16, 1988 at Keith Hills Country Club in Buies Creek, NC. Defending champion Guilford and perennial powerhouse Elon will be the teams to beat this season.

Wingate College baseball coach Dr. Ron Christopher is hopeful that his Bulldogs can have another banner year in 1988. Wingate finished the 1987 campaign 26-14 overall (10-6 in the Carolinas Conference and 15-7 in NAIA District 26). The Bulldogs also qualified for the district play-offs for the fifth time in the last seven years.

Dr. Christopher, 393-236-1 in his 18 Wingate seasons, will look to two all-conference performers for leadership. Second baseman Donald Smalls (sr., Blackville, SC) and outfielder Tony Coble (soph., Asheboro) were both named to the all-conference team. Smalls hit .324 in 1987, while Coble batted .288 with 10 homers and 33 RBI. He led the Bulldogs in homers and RBI.

Wingate's blend of returnees and newcomers is the major source for Dr. Christopher's optimism. "I think we will have a better year in 1988," Dr. Christopher said. "Our returning pitchers are much improved and we have several talented freshmen hurlers. I feel pitching will be a key."

Returning pitchers include junior Cole Sigmon (Lincolnton), and sophomores Chris Jones (Sumter, SC), Chris Hawkins (Sumter, SC), Brian Kennerly (Kannapolis). Freshmen recruits who will see action on the mound include Alvin Morman (Rockingham) and Darrick Embry (Thomasville).

Sophomore pitcher Eric Laws (Concord) is up from the junior varsity, while Troy Harris (fr., Hickory) could contribute to the team.

Marc Tsitouris (soph., Monroe) returns at third base after hitting a team-leading .333 last year. David McDuffie (soph., Sophia) can help at several positions, while his brother Jeff McDuffie (jr., Sophia) will add power from his catcher's position. Jeff Henley (jr., Lincolnton) returns after a year's absence to add depth to the catcher's spot. Pat Schlappich (fr., Monroe) could also catch.

In the field, several varsity newcomers could contribute. Freshmen Doug Hollars (Forest City) and Darren Street (Bostic) will help at shortstop and first base, respectively. Kirk Shook (jr., Hudson) and Benji Broome (soph., Belmont) will both add depth in the infield. Brad Whitley (fr., Clemmons) could also help in the infield or the outfield.

Outfielder Tim Stamey (jr., Lincolnton) hit .327 in 1987 with a conference-leading 51 runs scored. "I'm very excited about the coming season," Dr. Christopher said. "Our team speed is improved and our pitching and catching should be better than average. We have enough depth that we could almost platoon to get left or right-handed hitters in the line-up. Even though we have a young team, we are experienced because these young players played last year, I'm pleased with our progress," he added.

Wingate College softball coach Don Phillips enters his first season with much confidence. The Lady Bulldogs were 16-13 overall (8-6 in the Carolinas Conference and 10-8 in NAIA District 26) last season, Wingate's best record ever. With many key players returning, Phillips knows the potential is available for another successful season.

"My first goal is to have a winning season," Phillips said. "I'd like to finish in the top half of the conference and possibly qualify for the district tournament."

All-district outfielders Susan Wright and Bonnie Leed and pitcher Pam Babb graduated, but coach Phillips believes the Lady Bulldogs can continue to improve with strong returnees and an excellent recruiting class.

Leading the veterans is Wingate MVP, all-conference, and all-district second baseman Gigi Haynes (sr., Concord). "She is a good leader who we will count on this season," Phillips said. Other returnees include shortstop Jo Anna Boheler (jr., Kings Mountain), infielder Julie Aldridge (jr., Badin), catcher Starr Forney (jr., Salisbury), infielder Audrey Sherrill (soph., Newton), infielder/pitcher Toni Cress (soph., Landis), and outfielders Lisa Kerr (soph., Kannapol-is), Stephanie McCoy (soph., Charlotte), and Kim Sharpe (soph., Concord).

Freshmen newcomers include Amy Loftis (Denton), a pitcher who possesses a strong bat. Tracy Williams (Lake Lure), an outfielder who will add power to the lineup. Another outfielder who will contribute is Dana Boger (Concord), giving the Lady Bulldogs quickness and an accurate arm.

Outfielder Suzanne Franklin (soph., Gastonia), a transfer from N.C. State, gives Wingate another good glove in the outfield. Lori Toth (sr., Monroe) returns to the Lady Bulldogs after a two-year absence to add more quickness to the outfield. Other new faces include infielders Wendy Christopher (soph., Wingate), Melissa Riddle (soph., Mt. Airy), and Sandra Connors (fr., Midland).

Coach Phillips believes the strength of the team include experience, defense, and depth. He believes Wingate can contend with conference frontrunners Catawba, Pfeiffer, and Pembroke State once they gain confidence and respect in him.

CHEER -

With the leadership of Captain Anne DeFranco and Co-Captains Marty Little and Randy Boone, the 1987-88 Blue Cheerleading Squad had an impressive year. Squad members attended cheerleading camp last summer and returned with new ideas for pyramids and cheers. This squad entered a video for national competition and was placed 18th in District One. Miss Beth Lawrence served as advisor for the cheerleading program.

The Blue Squad is responsible for cheering at the football games and for men's basketball team.

This squad was an excellent example of creativity, dedication, and most of all, school spirit. A great deal of hard work was spent by squad members to create one of Wingate's finest Blue Squads.

CHEER -

The 1986-87 gold cheerleading squad had an extremely successful year. Led by captains Kristi Wilkins and Clark Carter, and coach Lee Lutz this squad cheered the Lady Bulldogs to a rewarding season. The learning of cheers, partner stunts, and pyramid building takes time, but this squad learned quickly and displayed these abilities in an exciting method. Squad members traveled to Pennsylvania and Kansas City and completed their season with a dance performance during Air Band Competition.

Because of the 1987-88 gold cheerleading squad, cheerleading has become a growing program. Squad members have worked extremely hard and their practice has paid off. Coach Bobby Mongan used his cheerleading experience to prepare squad members for the blue squad. The 1987-88 squad has been one of Wingate's largest and most talented squads. This squad cheered the Lady Bulldogs onto an outstanding year.

Under the leadership of Captain Dawn Hartis, the Wingate College Dance Team finally became reality. Hartis presented the idea to Bill Connell, athletic director, who liked the idea because he felt it would get more students involved. Connell said the dance team could be implemented on a trial basis. If it goes well, the program will continue.

This year the dance team performed during half-time at football and basketball games.

There were seven girls who made the team, plus Hartis, to make up Wingate's first dance team of eight members. The girls who were chosen were: Jennifer Goodman, Annette Turner, Nibbi Caldwell, Tricia Burriss, Lucinda Fisher, Beth Thompson, and Kema Todd.

THE GATESTAFF 1988

The 1987-88 Gate Staff this year went through a period of trial and adjustment as Don Courtney took on the tremendous task of being editor-in-chief.

Many times the staff was ready to give the job up due to the amount of work to be done. By sticking together and helping each other out, the staff pulled through. Being on staff meant late nights, brainstorming, exhausted eyes, and hurried deadlines. Nevertheless, it was a fun experience and well worth the time.

The press run for The Gate 1988 was 1650 copies with 208 pages. Walsworth Publishing Company located in Marceline, Missouri published this year's yearbook. The company representative was Wayne Wolfe, who shared his vast knowledge and expertise. A special thanks is extended to Wayne from the staff. All copy was proofread by Carol Storey, a senior, majoring in Communications and Art.

All class portraits, homecoming and May Court photos, club photos, Who's Who photos were taken by Lee's Studio located in Lancaster, SC.

The theme "Reflections" originated from Don Courtney's marvelous brain while he was bathing in the Daytona Beach sun.

A special thanks to Lee's Studio for their excellent work.

FOLDING BACK

"And, though its pages are yellowed, open that closed Gate once more . . . and, in memory, bring back your classmates, your college life, and your dear Alma Mater." — The Gate, Vol. I Bending back the pages of The Gate, 1988 shows a college in transition. A tug-of-war between the traditional and the contemporary.

Commissioned research studies for Wingate's future campus development reflected the tension of these ideas at work. On one side pull the "classics" — the academic quadrangle, the stately Burris Building, and Alumni's sturdy facade.

At the rope's other end strain the "modern" — the sharp, clear lines of the Cannon Sports Complex, the renewed cafeteria, and the DPC.

Knotting the "rope" proved the only way to tie old to new. Wingate's well-publicized Plan for the Second Century seeks to shorten the distance between the ends by improving facilities and revitalizing academic growth.

"Anyone who stops learning is old, whether at twenty or eighty. Anyone who keeps learning stays young. The greatest thing in life is to keep your mind young." — Henry Ford

As usual, learning from book-less experiences seemed to outweigh that from class lectures. Outside the boundaries of classroom, blackboard, time limit, and professor, insights were more inviting, though subtle, in their appeal to students.

Learning responsibility and dealing with people are two how-to's gained from dorm life and club involvement. Inspiration mingled with awe characterized reactions of students lucky enough to take time out for Awakening '88 illusionist Billy Riggs. Respect and gut-intense attention were the Lyceum responses to the powerful words of a former member of the Hitler Youth and a survivor of the Holocaust.

Even in Cuddy Arena students courted tough learning battles, taking in the victorious Lady Bulldogs alongside the persevering struggles of the men's team. Finally, the tragic deaths of several members of the Converse women's basketball team during their trip home from Wingate pulled some heads out of clouds in realization of the brevity of life.

Wingate. College and community inseparable. The Wingate World often loomed large enough and so complex — but safe — that only news-print and black ink from the Charlotte Observer could suggest life outside the bounds of Wingate College. A "vision for excellence" only gazes so far.

The images given back by 1987-88 reveal a nation routed by scandals: the never-ending story of the Bakkers, the Iran-contra-versy, the life and loves of Gary Hart. Newsmakers continued blackly with the AIDS rampage and friction between Israelis and Palestinians. At the presidential level, though, hope gingerly touched Soviet/U.S. relations. A carnival air whirled as '88 White House hopefuls revved up for the race.

It's all a matter of perspective. In comparison, Wingate College life shrinks proportionately. "We all live through the same moment, but our perceptions of that moment differ," lectured Dr. Mary Evelyn Collins in Persuasion 410. It's all in your perspective.

EDITOR'S LETTER

Don Courtney
Editor, The Gate 1988

Lee's Studio

As the last page is turned in and the final deadline met, I Reflect on what a great year it has been. It has been a special experience for me to be editor of The Gate 1988. There have been many good times, bad times, and many hours of hard work spent in the production of this year's yearbook.

Last summer, this book was only a vision to the staff members. With the Golden Anniversary upon us, we realized the importance of producing a very special book. The Gate is an important part of Wingate College, and is used as a time machine, a memory saver, and as a source of reference that people will use for many years to come.

As editor, I can honestly say there were times I wondered why I had accepted such a responsibility. Now I know the rewards I have gained far outweigh the inconveniences I experienced. The friendships that developed are ones I will always cherish. I also realized a deadline means a DEADLINE.

Without the endless devotion of Carol Storey, Tammie McClure, and Lisa Hixson, this book would not have been possible. Their dedication to The Gate has made it one of the best ever. They mean so much to me in the production and details of this yearbook. I would like to take this opportunity to say, "God bless you all!"

Another special thanks goes to Wayne Wolfe, our representative, and, Dr. Walter Woodson for their helpfulness and input on The Gate. Appreciation is also extended to Lee's Studio for their excellent work.

Lastly, I would like to dedicate the 1987-88 edition of The Gate to the heartbeat of Wingate College. Without the comradery, helpfulness, morals, and attitudes among students and faculty this school would not be Wingate College. Therefore, the dedication goes to you all - the Wingate family!

Sincerely,
Don Courtney
Editor, The Gate 1988
